

Allied PhotoChemical to participate at RadTech 2011 West Coast Event.

Allied continues to support industry leading events

MARYSVILLE, MI – March, 2011 – Allied PhotoChemical, a leading manufacturer of UV Technology for In-Line Manufacturing and Mobile applications, announced its participation and support for the Radtech 2011 West Coast Event, to be held in San Jose, CA on March 8 & 9, 2011.

“Allied has a long history of supporting the RadTech Organization and it’s industry trade shows,” says Michael Kelly – CEO/President. “The Radtech West Coast event has been specifically tailored to the Electronics and Medical markets; both of which are served by Allied’s UV Electronic Ink platforms.”

“In addition, Allied will be conducting a series of customer meetings and engagements during the event,” says Dan Sweetwood – VP of Operations. “All of which are focused on promoting UV Technology and it’s ability to allow manufacturers to produce faster, minimize energy costs, WIP and quality costs and eliminating VOC’s and provide a safer work place environment.”
